Diamond Road

Diamonds have come to mean many things to many different people, and that meaning can be as rough or polished as the journey of the diamond itself. Shot on four continents over one year, Diamond Road explores the many facets of the world's most intriguing gem. Every year 24 tons of diamonds are teased from the heart of the earth. Once mined, they begin their year-long journey through a vast network of people encompassing five continents. By the end of their journey these tiny bits of carbon will have made multimillionaires of some and virtual slaves of others.

Wednesdays September 1 to 15 at 9 pm and midnight, and repeating Sundays September 5 to 19 at 11 pm.

Occupation

After participating in the invasion of Basra in 2003 and helping to fly an injured girl back to Manchester for treatment, Mike, Danny and Hibbs are each inspired to return to Iraq for his own reasons: one for money, one for love, and one because he passionately believes in the mission to rebuild Iraq. Set against the backdrop of growing sectarian conflict in an Iraq awash with billions of dollars from the United States, their three distinct but interwoven journeys come to define not just their lives but the war itself. 14+ Sundays at 10 pm September 12 to 26 and Tuesdays at 1 am September 14 to 28.

The End of Suburbia: Oil Depletion and the Collapse of the American Dream

This award-winning documentary from Toronto-based filmmaker Gregory Greene is the first of a two-part exploration of the Oil Age and its impact on how and where we live. The suburb has seen its population explode in the past 50 years, and the suburban lifestyle has become embedded in the American consciousness. But as we enter the 21st century, serious questions are emerging about its sustainability. The End of Suburbia takes a frank, and sometimes ironic, look at the American way of life and its future as the planet approaches a critical era with global demand for fossil fuels beginning to outstrip supply. Sunday September 19 at 4 pm.

WEDNESDAY SEPTEMBER 29

- 7:00 Creatures of the Cork Forest
Every time we weigh which bottle of wine to buy, we hold the fate of nightingales, rare black storks, secretive wild cats and a remarkable tree in our hands. The cork oak is the only tree in the world whose bark can be periodically removed without killing it. And in the Montados in Portugal, a sustainable local economy dovetails harmoniously with nature.

How the Earth Changed History

The traditional interpretation of history has focused largely on human factors. Yet the planet itself has also shaped history since the dawn of time. In this five-part series, Professor Iain Stewart visits spectacular locations around the globe to reveal how factors like water, earth, wind and fire have shaped everything from the birth of agriculture to the industrial revolution. Tuesdays at 9 pm September 28 to October 26 and Thursdays at 10 pm September 30 to October 28.
